Sewer hinges on special town meeting vote

The fate of Wilmington's partially completed sewer project will be decided at a special town meeting next Monday, June 9, at Wilmington High School.

Without a two-thirds vote in favor of article 1. on the town warrant, Town Manager Sterling Morris says, the sewer project will be stopped dead in its tracks, with $4 million worth of pipe already in the ground.

A second article, sponsored by former selectman Daniel Gillis, which seeks to scratch a portion of the sewer project designed to serve North Wilmington industrial land, will also be given consideration by voters. Its inclusion on the warrant has sparked a growing debate among proponents of greater industrial growth and those who would like to maintain Wilmington's present residential-industrial ratio.

"The breaking point of industrial versus residential land is 25 to 30 percent and we have passed that point," Gillis told the townspeople at last week's finance committee hearing on the warrant articles.

He said that while he was not opposed to industry which "developed naturally" in town, he was concerned that industries discharging large amounts of water into a sewer would eventually dry up the town's water supply.

In fact, both groups have expressed concern for protecting Wilmington's water supply. Those who favor a sewer extension to service North Wilmington industries such as Compugraphic and Charles River Breeding Laboratories contend that if a sewer is not constructed the town's water supply will eventually be in danger of pollution by industrial wastes.

"Industry can build in North Wilmington anyway and if they don't have sewerage, you are going to get pollutants in the water supply," Finance Committee member Michael Dolan warned.

"The sewer was designed to serve not only Silver Lake but industrial land in North Wilmington as well," Morris stressed. "As a result of a 1975 vote in favor of this, there has been considerable expansion at this location," he said.

An example of this expansion is Compugraphic Corporation which is completing a large office building on Ballardvale Street and planning to build two more facilities in the same area. Compugraphic Facilities Manager Robert Murray has hinted that construction plans could be scrapped if the sewer line were not built.

Charles River Breeding Laboratories is also anxiously awaiting arrival of the municipal sewer. According to Planning Board member Arnold Blake, the firm is presently disposing waste into a state-approved temporary sewerage treatment plant until the sewer can be constructed.

"I think we should encourage every bit of industry that we can get in this part of town," offered Selectman Rocco DePasquale. The area, he had said earlier, was an ideal one since it provided traffic access to routes 93 and 125 without entering heavily populated residential areas of town.

"This is the first and only area we can develop for the type of industry Wilmington has always desired but been unable to obtain," DePasquale said. More multi-million dollar businesses like Compugraphic, he maintained, would give the town a greater tax base and a lower tax rate.

A particular fear of those who favor completion of contract 6 to North Wilmington is that its elimination will mean additional months of red tape to have a revised sewer plan approved by federal and state authorities. According to Water Commissioner Arthur Smith, it would add another two to five years onto the project.

"Once you drop a project, you have to go back to go," he said.

This would seriously squelch the water commissioners' hopes of bringing the total cost of the sewer in line with the project's $10.6 million budget. It is the commissioners' intention to let the remaining three contracts of phase one out to bid before the end of July, 1980. "Contractors are bidding cheap right now," Smith said. Things will be different, he said, in October or November.

Morris has also said that failure of article 1. to pass at the special town meeting will jeopardize the chances of any future sewer extensions.

The phase currently under construction will serve approximately 60 per cent of the homes in Wilmington, he said. To provide sewerage throughout the town would mean two main trunk lines, Morris said.

According to Smith, the town is currently in the process of filing for a second grant to fund a second trunk line along Woburn Street to take care of "the other half of Wilmington." Still another phase, two years in the future would carry the line north of Concord Street to Andover Street.

"When this is completed 95 percent of the homes will be served," he said. "It will require two trunk lines and approximately four pumping stations."

Of the phase already underway, Morris has said, approximately 75 per cent of the total cost is reimbursable under federal funds. Thirteen per cent of the costs will be state-reimbursable, he said.

Comment

'Very attractive land' is very wet

Madelyn McKie was the lady who defeated Article 16 in the annual town meeting in Wilmington. Article 16, submitted by the water and sewer commissioners, sought to clarify a vote of several years past, relating to the bonding of the sewer construction program. It required a two-thirds vote in the town meeting.

The discussion of Mrs. McKie was one of confusion. There is no better way to spoil any program than to confuse the listener. He or she will automatically vote No, on the theory that maybe something is wrong.

The lady had gone up to the planning board, as a part of a study program on water, by the League of Women Voters.

That study had no part in the actions of Mrs. McKie in the town meeting, nor was the LWV, in any way responsible for what happened.

Mrs. McKie, it will be recalled by those who were at the Wilmington town meeting, told the meeting that she had seen maps which showed where some large developments could take place, if the sewer were to be constructed to Ballardvale Street. She told the town meeting that the planning board should have a study, before any sewer was to be put in.

Yes, she saw maps, and at the planning board office.

The planning board had a housing article in the town meeting warrant - Article 22. Lots of land of over 15 acres could possibly be affected, if Article 22 were voted favorably. So the planning board was making a map, showing every lot of land of 15 acres or more, in Wilmington - just in case someone asked a question in the town meeting.

Most of those lots were in the swamps. There were wetland areas, all all over town, that showed up on that map.

And beside the map, real handy, was a Flood Plain map of Wilmington. It would not take a planning board study to determine the type of land of anyone of the sections shown. A glance at the HUD Flood Plain Map would suffice.

One could also look at the USCGS map of Wilmington, on the wall in the planning board office. That too would show that the areas being delineated by the planning board, in anticipation of Article 22, were mostly swamp.

Mrs. McKie had special reference to the land near the railroad and northerly of Salem Street. The boundary on the north is Route 93. The boundary on the east is the Wildcat Railroad. On the south it is (largely) bounded by Salem Street, and on the west by the Tewksbury town line.

The land is largely swamp. Real estate developers in years past, left it strictly alone. There is a big area of blueberry bogs. You take off your shoes, and wade in. There are a couple of old pig farms, up at the end of McDonald Road.

McDonald Road is the only way in, and McDonald Road is one that skips from little hillock to little hillock. Where it ends is the end of the dry ground.

One of those pig farms became the Wilmington town dump, for a 15 or 20 year period. That was in the days before there was any such thing as a Conservation Commission, and Wetland laws.

McDonald Road seems to be the only entrance into the area of which Mrs. McKie was talking, through Wilmington.

To the west, on the other side of the Tewksbury town line, is the one hundred acre farm which is now the Tewksbury dump.

No real estate developer would dream of using either route, through either dump.

No planning board needs to study any problem there, about developments. A glance at the map is sufficient. It is all wetland, and with no access.

It would be nice if the Planning Board could bring that map to the town meeting, along with the flood plain map. Then everyone can see how the land about which Mrs. McKie is so alarmed is just plain swampland.

Madelyn McKie, when she defeated Article 16, in the warrant for the annual town meeting, and thus started the furore over sewers, told the voters that the sewer was going through "very attractive land." She hinted that there would be all sorts of real estate developments, which would increase traffic on Salem Street and on I 93. There would be pressure and demands for roads and other municipal services, she said.

Mrs. McKie did not tell the town meeting of all the flood lands in the area, which is shown here in a reproduction of the Wilmington HUD flood map.

She did not tell the voters that a large part of the land belongs to the Town of Wilmington. The town voted to build a high school there, once upon a time.

She did not tell the town meeting of the old Kunegenas pig farm, in the flood plain, the only privately owned "land" which anywhere near approaches the projected sewer.

On the easterly side of the railroad is Ella Avenue and Franklin Avenue, a real estate development of a few years ago, bordering on the 500 year flood plain. Near Ella Avenue the Jackson Brothers had to abandon a house site, because there was 20 feet of water.

It's a Wilmington reunion

They're calling it "A Wilmington reunion," and it's a part of the town's 250th Anniversary celebration.

The 250th Anniversary Committee will sponsor a dance at the Shriners Auditorium on Saturday, June 21. The dance will feature the Continental, the band that played at the 250th Anniversary Ball in January.

Members of the committee have joked that the dance will be the same as the one in January - no food. The difference is that the June dance will be planned that way. Most people who attended the January Ball agreed that the band was worth hearing.

The dance is intended as a fundraiser for the 250th Anniversary Committee, which is planning to hold fireworks on the Fourth of July weekend, as well as a parade in September. The committee is operating with no appropriation from the town meeting, and therefore must raise its own funds.

The donation for the dance is $5 per person. Table snacks will be provided. The festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tips for a healthier summer

The Tall Ships have arrived and with them has come the beginning of good weather.

With the beginning of good weather our thoughts turn to sprucing up the yard and the house, making those repairs that have been plaguing us all winter.

It has been said that the most dangerous animal in the forest is a human with a book of matches.

If this is true, then the most dangerous appliance in the house is the weekend carpenter.

As you make that list of things to do this spring and summer, put your personal health at the top of the list.

When was the last time you had a tetanus shot... Are you physically ready for jogging, pushing the lawn mower, planting those shrubs, etc... If there is the slightest doubt, check with your family physician.

As you look around the yard at the million and one things that need to be done, think about "kid proofing" your yard. Make sure that there are no hazardous conditions that are an invitation and danger to small children. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, particularly if you have a swimming pool.

If you do have a pool, stop in the health department office and pick up some information on what you should do to "kid proof" your pool.

Summer is a beautiful time of the year. Enjoy it and don't let some silly accident spoil it for you; and this winter, when the snow is as high as a giraffe's Adam's apple, you can think back to what a good time you had.

Protect Wilmington's watershed Support the Water and Sewer Commissioners

Water is a vital resource for Wilmington. One means of protecting Wilmington's watershed is with a sewer.

The sewer system in Wilmington was designed to serve the area of town most in need of sewerage, and to do so within physical limitations imposed by the geography of the town.

The sewer system will serve the Silver Lake area of Wilmington, and then head north to serve the Ballardvale Street industrial area.

Already completed in an interceptor sewer, running through part of South Wilmington.

The Ballardvale Street industrial area is presently undergoing an increased amount of industrial development. Largely segregated from the rest of town, the industrial area is designed to provide the town with a substantial tax base without creating a burden on the residents of the town.

One of the oldest industrial firms on Ballardvale Street is the Charles River Breeding Laboratories. The firm has for thirty years been one of the town's top employers, and has developed a business that has earned world-wide fame. The company has sewerage needs that go far beyond the limits of an on-site disposal system.

One of the newest firms to Ballardvale Street is a firm that is no stranger to Wilmington. Compugraphic Corporation has become the town's largest employer, and now employs more than 4000 people at its many sites. The large building now under construction at Ballardvale Street and Route 125 will house the engineering and data processing divisions of the firm. Also planned are two additional buildings on nearby sites. The company's planning for these buildings was done on the assumption that the town's sewer would be there. The company has said that the additional buildings will not be constructed if the sewer is not built.

Design of the sewer

Is it wise to approach the Ballardvale Street area with a sewer that runs along the railroad tracks through an undeveloped area? Wouldn't it be cheaper to approach from the Andover Street side, with a sewer that comes up Woburn Street. No.

Woburn Street will not likely have sewers for many years to come. In the meantime, the Ballardvale Street area will be in need of the sewer. Also, there is the problem of crossing Route 93. The sewer must go through at the point of an underpass - such as at the northerly railroad bridge under Route 93, or two miles to the south, at Concord Street.

Federal funding for sewer construction is not presently available for new designs. James McDonough of Whitman and Howard recently reported to the Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners that the prospects for a Woburn Street sewer were years in the future.

One other reason that the sewer would be much cheaper on the Salem Street and railroad route is that the pumping station for that segment has already been installed. Costing $220,000, the station is located on Lexington Avenue, between Cunningham Street and Corum Meadows. Its function will be to take the sewage from the Ballardvale Street sewer and pump it through the Silver Lake area sewer, eventually going out of town in the MDC sewer. Without the Ballardvale Street sewer, the pumping station would become the town's most expensive monument to political hysteria.

The entire sewer is designed to operate as an integrated system, and not as a set up of tinkertoys, subject to disjointed pushing and pulling.

Will Wilmington run out of water in 1990?

A much quoted and highly paid consultant said yes. He also said that Wilmington would have a population of 39,000 in 1980. He was only off by a mere 20,000. How much was he off on the water estimate?

Do not be confused by the arguments about water quantity. Quality is the most important concern, not quantity.

Wilmington has a high water table. There is no shortage of groundwater. That is one of the reasons why septic systems in Wilmington tend to work poorly.

These poorly working septic systems do contribute some water to the ground, but it is not high quality water. If the system is far enough from a wellfield, the ground can be expected to filter the water before it reaches the wells. But to say that Wilmington's water resources lie in its septic systems and leaching beds is wrong.

Wilmington's groundwater largely comes from rainfall, not from its septic systems.

The sewer, by the way, does not collect rainfall. Street drains do not feed into the sewer system. The sewer will be collecting wastewater.

Wilmington industry in the last 18 months has greatly reduced the percentage of water used. In January, 1979, the industries of Wilmington used 63.4 per cent of the water that was used in town. In April 1980, that figure had been reduced to 50.9 per cent. Given the incentive of cost, Wilmington industry reduced its use.

The sewer would add another cost factor to water use. Sewer use charges are based on water usage, which will provide further incentive to reduce the amount of water used.

The construction costs of the sewer leg from Salem Street to Ballardvale Street would be provided by bonding. The Ballardvale Street segment of the sewer, though, would be charged on sewer betterments to landowners along the route.

In extending the sewer to Ballardvale Street, Wilmington will help to protect its valuable watershed from septic systems.

The arguments against the sewer purport to be based on good planning, with the intent of protecting Wilmington's water.

Think about it. Do you want your next drink of water to come from leftovers from a septic system, or from a rainfall - charged groundwater system that is protected from sewage?

A history of Wilmington's sewer

Wilmington was, in 1951, at the time of the adoption of the Town Manager plan, a town without industry or resource, other than the taxes gleaned from the homeowners. The average town employee was paid the minimum wage allowed in the state. The highway department employees were the lucky ones. Those men were paid 15 cents over the minimum.

Harry Deming was named first Town Manager. He acted purely in a holding position for one month, until the selectmen appointed Dean C. Cushing.

Among the things that Cushing did was go to the legislature in 1952, and ask for a special act for sewers in Wilmington, and for sewer service in the Metropolitan District Commission. No one paid much attention to it, at the time.

It was to be an important event for Wilmington. Not only was it possible to get service for sewerage in Wilmington, but the entry fee into the MDC was set at the low figure of $50,000.

In 1954 Joseph F. Courtney became Town Manager. Courtney attended every meeting of every board. Before long he had about 100 volunteers, working in the town hall, on programs he had laid out.

There was a joke in Wilmington at that time that in the town hall the lights never went out. Even Selectman Wavie Drew, an elderly lady, stayed up at night to work with volunteers in an effort to get an effective budget.

Courtney went to the planning board and convinced that board that it should request federal aid, for the planning of a Wilmington sewer. This was done. The federal government paid the bill, which was about $20,000.

Wilmington now had a right to connect to the MDC sewer, and a plan for sewerage in Wilmington. It was an overall plan, not a detailed one. That would have to come later.

Courtney also had the planning board look into the questions of zoning. Wilmington was a place where a lot of homes were being built on little lots of land.

The planning board put through the town meeting a temporary zoning of half acre lots, for homes. It hired Professor William Goodman of Harvard University, to advise on zoning. That was in 1954.

The Federal government was engaged in a multi-billion program of super highways. One was being planned to go through Wilmington. Today that superhighway is known as Route 93.

Goodman prepared zoning plans for industrial areas, and for residential areas. The industrial areas were to be located around the exits for the new highway, so that the Wilmington roads would not have to bear the brunt of truck traffic.

The new zoning map was voted in town meeting late in 1955. Even Time magazine took note, and reported on how Wilmington had been zoned around a superhighway.

Part of the land zoned for industry on recommendation of Professor Goodman, was the Bob Evans farm in North Wilmington. Route 93 cut through that farm. Route 125, as it heads for Haverhill, passes the old farm site. This was the land that Compugraphic was to buy, 25 years later.

Then in 1956 there were some mysterious enquiries into the buying of land in Wilmington. A major corporation wanted to buy. No one knew who it was.

Avco was the firm. It wanted to buy the Herbert C. Barrows farm, along Lowell Street, 70 acres of farmland.

The Barrows farm was not zoned for industry. The town was immediately faced with the problem on whether or not to rezone for Avco.

A town meeting was in favor. The result was a multi-million dollar facility. Many important studies were made there, relative to getting man to the moon. Avco was and is one of the more important scientific study organizations in the United States.

Avco, in its construction plans had allocated a sum of money for the construction of a sewer disposal bed. Courtney went to the vice president in charge. He persuaded Avco to divert that money into the construction of a sewer, to the Woburn line.

Then Courtney went into the state house and did some exploratory work. The result was the start of the sewer program in Wilmington.

The state contracted to construct a 30 inch sewer, to the Wilmington line, and to pay the costs. The work took two years, and the sewer was called the Aberjona Sewer.

Meanwhile the Woburn sewer was extended, on a temporary basis, to the Wilmington line. The cost was $2,000 a year. Avco paid for that cost.

Two years later, when the Aberjona sewer arrived at the Wilmington line it was connected to the sewer which had been constructed up Woburn Street to Avco. Avco had paid those costs. There was no charge to any Woburn Street resident. They could have been charged betterments.

The entry fee, $50,000 was paid by Avco, on a 10 or 20 year basis. The sewer had not cost the town one cent. The Town Crier referred to Avco as Uncle Avco. The vice president in charge did not like to hear the term used.

But there were other expenses.

It should be said, at this point, that other towns were joining the MDC, and at a greater cost. A town south of Boston (was it Stoughton?) paid an entry fee of $700,000. Burlington paid $500,000.

There was quite a hassle, in the state house, on how Wilmington got in for a $50,000 fee.

There were other expenses involved with Avco.

Courtney persuaded the town and the water commissioners to put in a water main, for the use of Avco. It was 10 inches, maybe 12, in diameter. The town paid the costs.

Courtney persuaded the state to authorize a wider Lowell Street. A fourth lane, called a "deceleration" lane, was built, Avco gave the land. The costs were paid by Chapter 90. At that time Chapter 90 meant the state paid one half, the county paid one quarter, and the town paid one quarter.

For 10 or 15 years there were no noteworthy extensions of the Wilmington sewer.

A large tract of land, in North Wilmington, northerly of Evans farm, was rezoned, however, on what seemed to be a promise of more industry. It was, time proved, to be a political move.

The publisher of the Town Crier, at that time, advocated instead that a street be put in, on the betterment plan, between West Street and Woburn Street, in land zoned for industry under the Goodman plan.

Buildings on that street could get water, sewer, power and railroad connections. No attention was paid to the publisher's proposals.

Later, through private efforts, the street was put in. It is now called Industrial Way. There was an extension of the sewer, up that street. It was done under the betterment plan.

When Sterling Morris became town manager, 10 or more years ago he talked over the sewer problem with the Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners. It was determined to proceed with planning the construction of sewers.

There were many homes that needed sewer service. There was the large tract of land in North Wilmington, laying there not being used by industry. It needed sewerage, and it needed a decent water supply.

Given those two factors, the land could return to the town treasury a goodly amount of tax money.

A program was prepared. The idea was to use, as much as possible, state and federal funds. It would take time, the commissioners realized.

About seven years ago Congress began talking about protection of the environment. Money was voted for sewer programs. In Wilmington commissioners were ready.

The idea was to use state and federal funds as much as possible. All planning was done with this in mind. Betterments would be charged along the streets, when no funds were available.

There were two possible target areas. One was North Wilmington, where industry was building up, slowly. There was no water to speak of and there was no sewer. The second area was the land easterly of Route 93. That would require more money than was available.

The choices were made because of two factors - the money available being one, and the places where Route 93 being crossed was the other.

The Town Meeting voted, $7,555,555. Construction has been going on, for several years.

The sewer, once it reaches Ballardvale Street, will be paid by the betterment plan. To get to Ballardvale Street it will have to traverse a swampy area, in North Wilmington, near the railroad.

Readers may remember that, a few years ago, the Jackson Brothers could not build streets where they planned, at Ella Avenue and Franklin Avenue. What was believed to be dry land was swamp. There was water 20 feet deep. It was given to the Conservation Commission.

Westerly of the area that was given to the Conservation Commission is more swampy land. The town bought about 80 acres from Fred Corum, a few years ago, for a high school site. Corum told the town meeting that it was "all swamp" but the town meeting bought it, just the same.

Since then, of that 80 acres, about 23 were found to be dry enough to be used for school purposes. The northern two-thirds of that land bought by the town proved to be a swamp.

There is more land, to the westward and northerly. There are some persons who say that land is valuable.

Yes, there is some dry land, but it is mostly swamp. Over the years it has been used for pig farms, and a town dump of many acres. That, to some people, is valuable land.

There will be a vote next Monday, on the basis of that belief. It still remains to be seen how valuable that land is.

Meanwhile Compugraphic Corporation has taken up, where Avco left off, about 15 years ago.

Compugraphic paid the costs for a 12 inch water main, from Andover Street along Route 125 to Ballardvale Street. That water main has now been extended along Ballardvale Street, with the abutments paying betterment charges.

There has been no cost to the town.

Sewer question a challenge

The Wilmington Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners are up against a real problem.

For years the board has worked on a program to extend sewer service to all of Wilmington. That means sewer service on the east side of Interstate Route 93, as well as on the west side. There are many homes on the east side, some of which need a sewer service urgently.

Interstate Route 93 cuts Wilmington in half. The road goes from southeast to northwest.

Most of the homes in Wilmington are westerly of Interstate 93, but there are four or five hundred which are easterly. There are many homes in Hathaway Acres, and both northerly and southerly of that area. There are homes along Park Street.

To get the sewer to those homes the Route 93 barrier has to be pierced. It is impossible just to dig beneath the highway. It is a federal highway, and permission would very difficult to achieve.

It is next to also impossible to run a pipe line over the highway, for the same reason.

Only where something goes under the highway - a road, a river or a railroad, can the board of water and sewer commissioners plan with confidence to get the sewers extended to the people on the east side of the highway. Only where the sewer and water commissioners can have a trench dug, for the sewer main, can this be done.

There are four openings, under the highway. One of these is the bridge over the Ipswich River. Two are openings for the Boston and Maine Railroad, one being near the Reading line, and the other being at the northerly end, near the Tewksbury town line. The fourth opening is where Concord Street goes through an underpass, under Route 93.

This seems to leave the commissioners with only two options, for getting to the east side of Route 93. The northerly railroad bridge is one, and Concord Street is the other.

The commissioners aimed at the Northerly railroad bridge, when planning began many years ago. Now, for some time, they have been making plans to get the sewer to Concord Street, and lay a sewer through to the east side, at that point. It is still some distance in the future, however.

Planning and money are involved. The money can come from the taxpayers, or be donated, or come from the federal or state governments. The planning is a continuous effort, one that goes on for years.

The commissioners now have a direct challenge, which will be discussed in the town meeting next Monday. There are those who seek to change the plan, and who are challenging the commissioners.

he voters of Wilmington will do the deciding.

Article 2, question 2

Article 2 in the Wilmington Special Town Meeting asks: To see if the town will vote to amend the sewer construction project for the Town of Wilmington and called "The Silver Lake Interceptor" by deleting Contract No. 6 in its entirety and the costs relative thereto for a total of 11,900 linear feet, more or less, or do anything in relation thereto.

Before deciding how to vote on such an article, the voter should answer two questions, if he or she intends to be responsible in the exercise of his or her vote.

In deciding how to vote on Article 2, the voter should consider himself to be carrying the responsibility for operating the town's water system and for ensuring that it will not become polluted with sewage.

Question No. 1: What are you going to do with a $220,000 sewage pumping station?

Question No. 2: How are you going to get the sewer across Route 93 and provide sewerage for the industrial area?

The answer to question No. 1 is not "Why don't you ask the people who built it?"

Besides, they might answer "Pump sewage."

The cute answers would include turning it over to some organization for its headquarters, or to this newspaper, as the editor's new typewriter.

The real answer is not as easy to come by. The town has built a $220,000 sewage pumping station at the junction of Contract No. 5 and Contract No. 6. A proposal has been made to not build Contract No. 6. In its present location, the station can be used to pump sewage from a few homes on Salem Street and from the sewer in Contract No. 6 into the sewer in Contract No. 5. Nothing else. It isn't a portable pump.

The point here is an exercise in responsible decision making. What are you going to do with it?

Abandon it? Would you abandon a building and device worth $220,000?

Dismantle it? How much will that cost? Is that any way for the town to spend its money?

In considering Question No. 2, bear in mind that there are industries on the other side of Route 93 which will be needing sewerage. How are you going to get the sewer across Route 93 if you don't go under the railroad bridge? What will you do for sewage disposal if you don't build the sewer?

The answers to these questions may be forthcoming at the Special Town Meeting on Monday night. But without the answers, the responsible voter will vote yes on Article 1 and no on Article 2.

Numbers from a non-expert

Will the industrial sewer for Ballardvale Street send valuable drinking water out to Boston Harbor?

Wilmington uses an average of 3 million gallons of water a day. Half of that is for industry (50.9 per cent, as of the April billing). If half of the industrially used water went into the sewer, that would be 750,000 gallons a day. If it all went in, that would be 1,500,000 gallons.

Wilmington receives an average of 44 inches of rainfall per year. The town has 17 square miles. There are 17.5 million gallons of rainfall per inch per square mile. The town receives 11.4 billion gallons of rain per year. Estimate that half of that runs off, leaving a net recharge from rainfall of 5.7 billion gallons per year. The town uses about 3 million gallons per day, just over 1 billion gallons per year.

Take the above figure for half of the town's industrially used water, 750,000 gallons per day. Multiply by 365, to get 273,750,000. Add that to the present rainfall recharge of 5.7 billion gallons per year, and you've almost hit 6 billion.

With the town using just over 1 billion gallons of water a year, the water that Wilmington would be losing "going out to Boston Harbor" from industrial sewage is .3 billion gallons, the difference between 5.7 billion and 6 billion. And you're talking about water coming from industrial septic systems, not rainfall. If these figures make your head spin, don't be confused. It seems that there is no shortage of confusing information. One very effective town meeting strategy is to confuse the voters. Then they'll vote against anything.

Bear in mind that these figures don't come from an expert. Your editor hasn't charged the town thousands of dollars for the report, so you don't have to pay attention to it. But then, Wilmington doesn't have a 1980 population of 30,000, which is what one of the highly paid experts predicted. He's the same fellow who predicted that the town would run out of water in 1990.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

The League of Women Voters of Wilmington urges all voters to support Article 2 at the Special Town Meeting on Monday, June 9th. In a recent publisher's statement you called the article in the May Town Meeting Warrant to allow the town to reapply for Federal funds for a sewer "a simple article that should have had no trouble." Not So!! The sewer affects all of us who live in Wilmington; it can have far-reaching effects on water resources and further development in town.

A Special Town Meeting in June, 1975 authorized the Silver Lake area to be sewerred and then the trunk to continue across raw, undeveloped land into Ballardvale Street in North Wilmington. A sewer is the most appropriate solution to Silver Lake's drainage problems; it is low, wet and densely developed. The League supports completion of the sewer in this area.

But North Wilmington is higher and drier. Further Ballardvale Street is an industrial area, and industry now uses 60 percent of our water. Because extension of the sewer up into Ballardvale Street could have two detrimental and far-reaching effects, the League opposes it.

First, it could jeopardize our water supply. Our water comes from wells, and an adequate supply depends on recycling what we use back into the ground to recharge the wellfields. Septic systems do this. Sewers do not; they would dump our water into Boston Harbor.

In the light of report after report by professional engineers and public officials alerting us to the threat of a very serious water shortage in the near future, such dumping would be unwise. For example, a 1974 report by Whitman and Howard, Wilmington's engineers on the sewer project, said that "Wilmington's water consumption has reached a point where it will exceed total available groundwater supply of the town." Five years later, in 1979, the Water Quality Task Force of the Special Legislative Commission on Water Supply warned that "Like a large number of communities in the state, Wilmington's current supplies are barely adequate, and a 1990 deficit of at least 1.4 million gallons a day is projected." To further complicate the problem, the MDC has made it clear publicly that it cannot supply water to any additional towns, including Wilmington.

Second, the proposed sewer of North Wilmington could open it up to rapid uncontrolled development without first assessing the impact on the area. Sasaki Associates, Inc., planners of Waterfront Park in Boston, says in a proposed study of the impact of the sewer on Wilmington that "intensive future industrial development may not be the panacea once considered due to increases in traffic generation, less appreciable influence on the tax base envisioned or general changes in the traditional composition of the town." We have been told that since much of that land is already zoned for industrial use, we should enhance it's attractiveness to developers with a sewer. But sewerage would most likely speed up the process and, if it did, could we be sure we would have overall orderly and balanced development of the land? Could we be sure that there are enough safeguards in our present zoning bylaw and town boards to ensure that we would not have another South Wilmington on our hands?

Dear Larz:

I am the grieving mother of a four and a half year old son who died suddenly two years ago. I live with pain and anguish every day of my life, and I miss him very much. There is very little I can do for my son now, except visit his headstone at Wildwood Cemetery and put some little remembrances there.

On Valentine's Day I put a basket of red and white flowers with a stained glass heart and a wooden love sign on his grave; within a short period of time, it was stolen along with remembrances from other people who loved him.

For his birthday we bought him two concrete white angels for either side of his headstone, a lovely present for a little boy. May 9 was the anniversary of his death. Everyone who loved him put some flowers at his headstone, each one with a great deal of love and affection. Well, today, May 14, I went to water his flowers and they were gone, along with the concrete angels and a butterfly candle. So if anyone has received a lovely gift of flowers or any of the above, I hope they enjoy them, they were stolen from our son's grave and you have just added additional heartbreak to our lives. Is there no justice in this life for the grieving? I hope when you people read this letter they will realize the pain and sorrow that is in it.

Two tales of the Tall Ships

A Wilmington man and three friends took part in the Tall Ships parade in Boston. Frank Judge, 20, of 18 Grove Avenue is one of four owners of the 40 foot ketch "Different Drummer." The boat is kept at Constitution Marina in Boston.

Don Fraser of Norwood and Kevin and Neil Abelli of Framingham are Judge's partners on the boat. They bought it three years ago from a British owner. The boat is white with blue masts.

Greg Barone of Kelley Road, Wilmington was one of the men to make the trip from Norfolk Va., to Boston on one of the tall ships last week. Barone was aboard the brigantine Unicorn, which took part in the four day Norfolk tall ships festival before proceeding to Boston. It arrived under full sail Thursday afternoon and was part of Friday's tall ships parade.

The Unicorn, incidentally, was the ship used in the production of the television epic Roots.

Greg is employed at Raffi and Swanson as a color analyst.

Episcopal Church conducting survey

Wilmington residents may expect to be contacted, by telephone, in a survey which is being conducted under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. The survey is planned for the first week of June.

The purpose is to ascertain the number of area residents who are of Episcopal persuasion, and to acquaint them with the possibilities of worship and the services available through the Episcopal Church in Wilmington.

Hearing June 23 on train fares

A public hearing on the proposed fare increases and commuter service cuts, by the MBTA, is to be held in the Reading Community Center on June 23rd. The Community Center is on Sanford Street. The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Federal regulations require such a hearing, before the changes proposed are put into effect. The MBTA is proposing a 46 percent reduction in train service on June 29, and fare increases on July 1. There will be one exception, the combination monthly railroad and rapid transit pass, which will remain in effect at the current price until September 1.

Both the Wilmington and North Wilmington stations are in Zone 3.

The price for a one way ticket at this time is $1.50. The price would increase to $1.75.

Twelve ride tickets, costing $15.00 would increase to $17.50 and a monthly pass, now $39.00 would increase to $46.00. The combined monthly pass, which does not change price until September 1, would increase from $48.00 to $64.00.

Train service between Wilmington and Boston would be halved. Seventeen trains stop, daily, southbound, at Wilmington. The new number would be eight. There would be no trains leaving for Boston after 6 p.m.

In the northbound schedule, Boston to Wilmington, there would be only one morning train, leaving Boston at 10:00 a.m. There would be seven trains leaving Boston between 1:00 and 8:00, but of these only six would stop at Wilmington.

Of the 23 trains running between Boston and Reading seven would be eliminated. The last train, Boston to Reading, would be at 7:30 p.m. and the last inbound train would be at 6:38 p.m.

North Wilmington at present has three trains to Boston, each morning. It seems there will be no changes.

Of the trains to North Wilmington from Boston, one of the three seems to be slated to go. The last train, arriving about 6:27 p.m. is scheduled to be cancelled on June 29.

LaRivee graduates Air Force Academy

Graduation at the United States Air Force Academy was a special event for a Wilmington family.

David R. LaRivee received his degree and his commission, with his mother, grandmother, and stepfather in attendance.

Lt. LaRivee graduated with highest honors, placing 20th in his class of more than 900 cadets. Designated as a "distinguished graduate," the equivalent of Magna Cum Laude, he graduated with military as well as academic distinction. He received a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission as a second lieutenant.

Lt. LaRivee is following in the tradition set by his father, the late Capt. Rene J. LaRivee, Jr. Capt.

LaRivee died in a plane crash in Alaska, when David was an infant.

Since his first semester at the academy, David LaRivee has had the distinction of wearing a silver star encircled with a silver wreath, for his achievement in being named to the Commandant's List.

Lt. LaRivee majored in economics at the academy. He has been selected for further training at Reese Air Force Base, Texas.

The Town Crier presents the ALL WILMINGTON PHOTO CONTEST

Do you have a favorite photo of Wilmington that you have taken? Is there a particular scene in Wilmington that appeals to you, one which would certainly win a photo contest, if you were to enter it?

In conjunction with Wilmington's 250th anniversary, the Town Crier is running the All-Wilmington Photo Contest.

The contest is easy. Who can submit the best photograph that represents Wilmington, Massachusetts?

The contest will include five categories, three in color, one in black and white, and one for historical submissions. The color division will be broken up into age groups.

Category No. 1: Color photos, taken by a person age 12 or under.

Category No. 2: Color photos, taken by a person age 13 to 18.

Category No. 3: Color photos, taken by a person age 19 or over.

Category No. 4: Black and white photo, no age restrictions.

Category No. 5: Historical photos, of Wilmington taken before World War II.

In the color categories, print quality will not be judged, but rather the photographer's eye for composition, choice of subject and exposure. Instamatic and Polaroid prints will be eligible to win in these categories.

Black and white photos will be judged on composition, choice of subject and on print quality (Neatness counts!). All entries in this category must be 8" x 10" prints.

Historical submissions need not be the work of the entrant. The intent here is to provide display of old photographs for the people of Wilmington on the town's 250th anniversary. All photos in this category will be returned.

All photos will be on display on the Wilmington Common on the July 4 weekend, and as many as will fit will be published in the July 2 Town Crier.

The contest closes on June 15. Anyone is eligible to enter, be they residents of Wilmington or not. But the photograph entered must in some way represent Wilmington.

An entry fee of one dollar per photo is requested, with the proceeds to go to the Wilmington 250th Anniversary Committee. In no case, though, will an entry be refused for want of the dollar.

The Town Crier staff will not be entering this contest, however members of their families are eligible to enter.

Bill Gustus and his wife, the former Terry DuBois, are graduates of Wilmington High School who have returned home after having spent two years in Kuala Lumpur, in the Federated Malay States, in the Peace Corps. They told some of their adventures, and showed slides, on May 28 in the meeting of the Wilmington Rotary.

Both attended college and Bill went on to get a law degree. Then, after they were married, they volunteered for the Peace Corps.

Serving in the Peace Corps is valuable, Bill told his audience. It gives a person a change of perspective, for one thing. There are now about 6,000 volunteers serving, all over the world.

He and Terry were sent to Malacca, a city on the strait between the Malay States and Sumatra, there to learn the Malay language. They lived for 10 weeks with a Malay family, of which Bill had some nice pictures. Then they were sent to Kuala Lumpur, the capital of one of the Malay States, he as a legal advisor, and she as an assistant in a crippled children's home.

Bill had, as his task, the job of inducing Malays into trade. There are three classes or nationalities, in the Malay States, the native Malays, the Chinese, and the Hindoos. The Chinese and the Hindoos have a tendency, more than the Malays, to enter into the hurly-burly of business.

Bill was there to teach them law and business. This he did for two years. Meanwhile he learned a lot of things about the Malays, and the religion of Islam of which he related to his audience.

Bill did not tell the story of when he and Terry were robbed, while on a visit to Singapore. That, it seems, will come at a later time.

Bill and Terry Gustus

Bill Gustus tells of life in Kuala Lumpur, as his wife Terry listens. Beside them is their host, Intermediate School Principal Bill Fay.

Events planned to benefit Louise Trahan

A choir concert, fund-raising drive, and a "Louise Trahan Appreciation Nite" buffet and dance are all planned in Tewksbury during the next several weeks to raise money for the hospitalized Shawsheen School teacher.

Meanwhile, police have reported nothing definite in the way of making an arrest in connection with the May 14 incident, when Louise Trahan was struck by a rock thrown through her windshield as she drove under the High Plain Road bridge on I-93 in Andover.

Mrs. Trahan is still making satisfactory recovery from facial surgery conducted at Lawrence General Hospital on May 23.

Concert

Tewksbury's Interfaith Choir will perform a benefit concert for her at 7 p.m. this Sunday at St. William's Church. The proceeds will go toward Mrs. Trahan's medical expenses.

Tickets for the concert are $2, and may be obtained through any choir member or by calling 851-3957.

Another goal of the concert, besides the monetary one, is to let her know she is not alone. Plans call for the development of a memory book from the concert, which will contain the signatures and good wishes of all in attendance.

In the program will be "Mrs. Trahan's Honor Roll," a listing of Louise's many well-wishers who contributed $5 or more to the concert. People wishing to be included in the program may send a check for $5 or more to: The Trahan Concert Fund, c/o Shawsheen Elementary School, Tewksbury, Ma. (No amounts will be included in the program.)

Tewksbury's Interfaith Choir has been an active organization for almost 10 years. It is composed of members from area churches, under the direction of Norm DeMarais of Tewksbury. Choral selections range from classical works to more recent compositions.

Appreciation Nite

A group of Louise Trahan's Tewksbury friends is sponsoring a "Louise Trahan Appreciation Nite" on Thursday, June 26, at the Elks Hall on South Street, Tewksbury.

The evening will include a buffet and dancing from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Proceeds will be used to defray Louise's medical expenses.

Tickets are $8, and may be obtained by contacting any of the following Louise Trahan Committee members: Melanie Scanlon, ticket chairman 658-8355, Nancy Priore 658-5188, Anne McNamara 658-9756, Virginia Coviello 658-9048, Mary Hallisey 658-6177, and Rachelle Berneth 658-2884.

Fund drive

Shawsheen School Principal Edward Pelletier has announced that a fund-raising drive will be held from June 5-12 to help defray expenses incurred by Mrs. Trahan.

Participation is welcome from any organizations and groups. Mr. Pelletier can be reached at 658-3119.

Citizens or organizations wishing to make tax deductible contributions should make checks payable to the Louise Trahan Fund c/o The Andover Savings Bank, Tewksbury Branch.

Graduate's tea June 10

The Walker School Mothers Club is planning a tea, to be held on June 10 at 3 p.m., a sort of graduate's tea, they say because the school is to be closed.

The publisher of the Town Crier is such a graduate, back over 60 years ago, when he was, relatively speaking, a young fellow. Stanley Webber, of Main Street, Wilmington and Henry Porter of Columbia Street, to name a couple are also graduates of the Walker School and it would not surprise anyone to learn that some of the McMahon girls attended that school as well.

Mildred Neilson of Glen Road is also thought to have attended that school, about the time that it was first opened.

One of the teachers, 65 years ago, was a lady named Gertrude Eames. She still lives in Wilmington and is probably the oldest Wilmington teacher, not only of the Walker School, but any Wilmington school.

Wilmington Public School student and adult tutors were honored by Director of Reading Carol Sager in a brief ceremony held last week in the library of the Woburn Street School.

High school students and volunteer adults from the community spent four mornings a week tutoring grades three through six students in various reading skills. Schools serviced throughout the past school year were the Boutwell, the Glen Road, the Shawsheen, the Wildwood, and the Woburn Street.

In brief remarks preceding the award ceremony, Dr. Sager made mention of the great service to Wilmington that these students and adults have performed. It is because of programs like this one, she added, that Wilmington's reading program has been singled out as 'exemplary' in the eyes of officials of the State of Mass.

Chet Rubin, teacher of reading and coordinator of the high school program, praised the tutors for their diligence and patience in working with the children. He mentioned the positive feedback given by the children's classroom teachers and the noticeable improvement in the children's reading performances as positive evidence of the tutors' effectiveness.

Mrs. Harriet Given, coordinator of the adult program and reading specialist at the Glen Road School pointed to the "happy smiles of the children" as a sign that the adults are really making a difference.

The volunteer reading program has been in existence for four years in the town of Wilmington.

AMC introduces the beautiful breakthrough that gets you through.

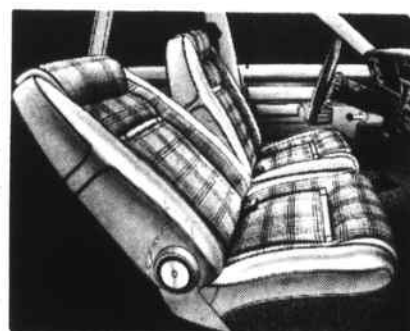

American Eagle. The only family compact with automatic 4-wheel drive.

Eagle's extraordinary traction reduces the chance that you and your family will ever be stuck in bad weather on bad roads. And Eagle's automatic 4-wheel drive gives you the kind of controlled traction in emergency situations that only fully-automatic 4-wheel drive can deliver.

Eagle comes through with comfort and style, too. Its interior and independent front suspension were especially designed for a roomy, comfortable ride. No 4-wheel drive has ever been styled and appointed so fashionably.

And every Eagle automobile is built to last with Ziebart® letter

Dr. George Eisenberg
Wilmington High School
Dear Dr. George

Will you please extend to your student government my heartfelt thanks for their cooperation on the common during this school year. They have done an excellent job and shown their sincerity as Wilmington citizens.

I understand they are now going into a two week trial period in the privilege of using the common for their socializing again.

Please tell them my heart is with them and I hope they again regain the privilege and use of the property. Believe me, I realize that the group has made a sacrifice for the few and I am rooting for them to win.

If, after your chat with them, you should choose to send this letter to the Town Crier for publication over my name, feel free to do so. I have utmost confidence they will "make it." They have made me again proud to be a Wilmington citizen and taxpayer.

Sincerely,
(Nosey Nancy)
Nancy H. Clark

Tewksbury Rotary Scholarships

Like many service organizations, the Tewksbury Rotary Club has a weekly newsletter, called the Pinion. Ralph Josselyn, a Tewksbury printer, is the man who does most of the work.

Josselyn and John D. McLellan, historian of the Tewksbury Rotary, a few weeks ago presented the club with a special edition of the Pinion, to tell the history of the Rotary Club of Tewksbury in this year, the 75th anniversary year of Rotary International.

It is a book of 24 pages, filled with pictures of events gone past, and with lore of what the club has been doing ever since it was formed in 1961 by John Gleason. The writing was by McLellan. Many old pictures were used, and President Mico Kaufman took pictures of every member, and had a brief biographical sketch prepared to be printed in the book.

The book won praise from other clubs.

Last week Mico Kaufman told the club that, from the money realized by printing that book, Tewksbury Rotary will increase the number of scholarships for graduating high school students this year. It had had to cut the number to two because of low funds.

Now the Rotary Club will give five scholarships to graduating Tewksbury seniors, each worth $300.

Samuel Shapiro elected president of Sweetheart Plastics

Samuel Shapiro has been elected president of Maryland Cup Corporation (NYSE), the nation's largest manufacturer of paper and plastic food service containers. He succeeds Henry Shapiro who has retired as president and member of the Board of Directors of the parent company upon reaching his 65th birthday.

Samuel Shapiro was previously executive vice president of Maryland Cup. He is vice chairman of the company's Board of Directors, a member of the Executive Committee, and president of its Sweetheart Plastics division, in Wilmington, positions he will continue to occupy.

Samuel Shapiro holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Boston University's College of Business Administration. He has received international recognition for his managerial skills, having won Industry Week Magazine's first award for "Excellence in Management" in November of 1977.

It was his interest in plastics in the 1950's and the practical applications he developed for that "new" material that led to the development of the first disposable plastic ice cream dish for Maryland Cup, and helped to create today's plastic food container industry.

Samuel Shapiro is a trustee at the Boston University Medical Center, and is a trustee of the Beth Israel Hospital, Lynn Hospital, New England Sinai Hospital, and a former trustee at Union Hospital - all in the greater Boston area. He was chairman of development for the Wilmington Regional Health Center, and is vice president of the Rehabilitation Center for the Aged in Swampscott.

Woman seeks to sell lot, curb vandalism

Ruth Leo lives on Green Street, Tewksbury. Her home is close to Lake Street, which goes through Tewksbury and Wilmington, and has acquired a reputation as a place where roaming gangs are to be found after dark.

About a month ago, Mrs. Leo appeared before the Tewksbury Board of Appeals, represented by Atty. Phil Shea of Lowell. She sought to have her land divided into two parcels, and the appeal was granted. The land she wants to divide is about one acre in area.

The plan, showing the land as it is to be divided, came before the Tewksbury Planning Board a couple of weeks ago. It brought about a division of opinion among the members.

Robert Sullivan and Dave Cook were willing to sign the plan, which would give Mrs. Leo the right to sell half her property for a house lot. The other members refused, citing the Tewksbury Bylaws, which make a one-acre lot mandatory. The vote was three to two against.

Mrs. Leo appeared before the planning board Monday evening. Her tale was one of having to cope with vandalism and drunken people. She often had to call the police, she said. There were broken bottles in the woods, and small kids were being hurt and had to be taken to the hospital.

There are a lot of problems, and all her abutters are in favor of the board of appeals action. "Why don't I get my permit granted," she asked.

Chairman Wilfred Lambert told her that, as a planning board, it has to draw the line. The law says one-acre lots.

Mrs. Leo told Lambert, "You don't live in our area. You don't know what's going on."

Lambert told of a telephone call from a member of one family who held that the lot was illegal as granted.

George Donovan of the planning board read the pertinent bylaw. 5.5.2, he said, requires a 150-foot frontage. "Your lot is already non-conforming." "Even if this board did sign, you would not be able to get a building permit."

The discussion went on. Bob Sullivan did not agree. The board of appeals, he said, can approve such an appeal - if there is no question raised.

Sullivan moved that the board reconsider the previous action. The vote was three to two in favor.

But Sullivan did not get a vote in favor of signing the plan of Mrs. Leo. The vote was two to one against, with two members abstaining.

Joseph G. Doherty, former chairman, was one who abstained. He wants to find out from town counsel if the planning board can sign the plan of Mrs. Leo. He wants to be legally certain, he said - "then I will sign it."

Sullivan again pointed out that the board of appeals had granted her appeal. The chairman accepted a motion to delay the vote for two weeks, while Doherty gets an answer from town counsel. The vote was four to one, Sullivan voting against.

Wilmington police news

Members of Wilmington's Police Department issued 277 citations during May as compared to 163 in April.

During the week ending June 3 officers investigated 28 burglar alarms; seven accidents; made eight arrests and three protective custody detentions.

Twenty-five disturbances were quieted; 11 larcenies were investigated; 15 malicious damage-vandalism complaints were checked out along with three break and entries; 12 reports of suspicious activity and five traffic complaints.

Six fireworks violations were checked, as well as one exposure complaint; five disturbances involving mini or trail bikes; five domestic disturbances; three missing children were located; one trespassing complaint was investigated along with one threat.

Tip of the week: Town bylaws prohibit the discharging of firearms within the town of Wilmington, with hunting and target shooting included in the ban. Violations can result in fines and confiscation of any weapons.

Arrests

At 5 p.m. on Wednesday Officer David McCue arrested Robert McManus of Somerville and charged him with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of narcotic drugs and possession of a class D drug.

Dana Nickerson of Billerica was arrested at 3:15 a.m. on Friday by Officer Jepson. Nickerson was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and failing to keep to the right of the road.

Saturday morning Geoffrey Holden of Shawheen Street, Tewksbury was arrested by Officer Rooney on charges of operating under the influence of alcohol and not having a valid inspection sticker.

Sgt. LaRivee arrested Steven Berry of Burlington Avenue at 7 p.m. on Saturday and charged him with being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages.

Two adults and a juvenile were arrested at 7 p.m. on Friday by Officer Rooney on liquor related charges. Thomas Babineau of Wiser Street and Robert Lowney of Strout Avenue and a juvenile companion were all charged with public drinking and being minors transporting alcohol.

Inspector Harvey arrested Joseph Cuoco, of Federal Street on a fugitive warrant issued from the North Reading Police Dept. upon request of New Hampshire authorities.

Stolen car

On Monday morning Mark Lagasse, of Saran Avenue Bedford reported his 1974 Porsche stolen from No. 3 Industrial Way during the weekend. The owner also reported that the car was disabled and probably was stolen with a tow truck.

Planning Board, Fincom vote on articles

The Wilmington Planning Board Tuesday night, with all members present, had three unanimous votes, with reference to the articles for the special town meeting of next Monday.

The members did not vote on Article 3. They voted in favor of Article 1, against Article 2 and in favor of Article 4.

John DeRoy, chairman, reviewed the economics of Article 1, in relation to the tax position of Wilmington. The industries in that area, he declared, will pay a much heavier load, by having a heavier tax base, and that will be to the benefit of the town.

Speaking of the sewer, which some seek to stop, DeRoy declared: "If this (sewer) is continued into the industrial area, it will be those industries who will pay for it."

He added that the Planning Board is ready to defend its position.

The members voted against Article 2. They regarded it as a disaster.

Article 4, which seeks to rezone land of Albert Fiorenza on West Street to High Density Traffic Business District also got approval, unanimously.

Arnold Blake of the Planning Board declared that the area should be rezoned as "improvement to the area." It would, he said, be a "practical use."

About four acres of land is involved. Fiorenza hopes to open a restaurant.

Finance Committee

The Finance Committee, after their hearing of last week, has also voted on the articles.

The committee voted in favor of article one and three, and against articles two and four.

Family weekend

A family weekend will be held at the Congregational Church in Wilmington on June 6, 7 and 8. Aimed at strengthening the family unit, the weekend marks Children's Sunday, in the Year of the Family.

The family weekend will include activities for all age groups, from nursery to senior citizens, with something for everyone, singles, couples and families. All events are free.

Friday, June 6, at 7:00 p.m., Drug Officer Joseph Cuoco, of the Wilmington Police Dept., will speak on the subject of "Drugs in Wilmington." There will be a question and answer period. After the talk, at 8 p.m., the movie "Nite Song" will be shown. "Nite Song," the story of two teenage boys who face the real life problems of poverty and adversity in an urban ghetto, is a film designed to bring today's family face-to-face with the solutions to life's day-to-day problems, even impossible problems faced by many teenagers. Humor, suspense, action and tragedy all combine to make "Nite Song" a film you will long remember.

Saturday evening, June 7, at 6:00 p.m. all young children (and the young at heart as well) are invited to see the delightful cartoon "Humpty Dumpty" from a Christian perspective. At 7 p.m., young and old alike will enjoy "Happiness Is..." a rare film which has managed to capture the attention of both children and adults. It provides a view of the lives of three boys who form a secret club and the girl who, when not admitted to the club, is determined to expose it and the boys. The film develops into a series of events as exciting as any of Tom Sawyer's adventures.

As most parents are aware, entertainment for children of a moral and spiritual nature can be a hard thing to come by. Therefore, no family should miss the opportunity to see these films.

Other events for the weekend include a pancake breakfast on Saturday for church families and Children's Sunday worship service on Sunday morning.

For further information, call 658-2264.

Cheryl Clark weds Joseph Sawyer

Candlelight and Bach set the mood for the wedding of Cheryl Ann Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark of McDonald Road, Wilmington to Joseph W. Sawyer, III of Dracut.

The Rev. Koomruian of the Wilmington Congregational Church performed the early evening ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white satin with illusion net insets and French re-embroidered lace appliques on the sleeves and neckline. She wore a headpiece fashioned from white daisies and baby's breath and carried a single red rose.

She was escorted down the aisle by her father to the strains of Bach played by local violinist Peggy Foye and church organist Mrs. Koomruian.

The reception was held at the home of Cheryl's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Blaisdell, 65 McDonald Rd., Wilmington. The table was adorned with a wedding cake made by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Warren L. Taylor of New Port Richey, Florida, encircled by white and red carnations - one for each guest. The food had been lovingly prepared by friends and neighbors of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., the couple is now living in Wilmington.

Dave led the team with a .373 average, five doubles, three triples and 21 RBI's, while he and Scanlon shared the times on base leadership with 38 apiece.

Big Dave was second in runs scored (15), walks (13), and total bases (31).

Designated-hitter Chris Nolan led the way with 33 total bases and three homers, while Scanlon finished with 16 runs scored (tops on the club), 14 walks and two triples.

Senior thirdbaseman and co-captain Scott Richards ripped three doubles and a home run while finishing with a .362 bat mark. Gary Hastings, Wilmington's other co-captain, topped the conference with 16 stolen bases, and wasn't caught attempting to steal all spring.

Senior righthanders John Ferguson (6-4, 2.46) and Earl Paulsen (1-1, 1.91) also enjoyed fine springs for a team that just missed qualifying for the Eastern Mass Tournament.

Police Road Race

Some police caught speeding

Several police officers from Wilmington and Tewksbury enjoyed a little slice of life in the fast lane Saturday in the Second Annual Police Invitational Road Race run in Wilmington.

Among the local officers who chugged to the finish of the 6.5 mile race were Wilmington's Bob Spencer and Larry Redding, who were the first Wilmington officers to cross the finish line in a dead heat for 38th place with a 49:59 time.

Other Wilmington officers to finish the race included Dennis Rooney (66th, 1:24) and Chris Neville (75th, 1:36). Joanne Burnelle rounded out the Wilmington runners with a win and a 50:32 time in the Women's Senior Division.

Perfect Mariners champs

Pitchers Jeff Bruette (4-0) and Ed McGurn (3-0) helped lead Tewksbury's Mariners to the Minor National League first half title as the team compiled a perfect 8-0 record.

Justin Bruere, Neil McNeil, Joe Fernald, Jim Ludwig and McGurn have all been stinging the ball at a steady pace to lead the champs' attack. The infield defense has been solidified around Rich Sinopoli and Ron Crowell.

Steve Quaglia and Tom Bartalone have both been playing great defense in the outfield and have started swinging the bats well late in the first half. Rightfielder Paul Botton, a fine defensive player, rounds out the Mariners' solid picket line.

The Mariners have their rabbits on the basepaths as well, with Eric Mueller, Derek Leahy and Mark Amirault all running well, along with newcomers Tom Canarelli and Gregg Basillio.

Senior League
In the American Division the Twins and Red Legs finished the first half with identical 6-2 records. A one game playoff at the end of the season will decide the first half winner.

The National Division saw a hot contest, with the Phillies taking the first half with a 6-2 record over the Astros, Braves and Cubs, all with 5-3 slates.

Intermediate League
The Mariners of the American Division edged out the Blue Jays as the first half champs with an 8-2 record.

The National Division saw the Brewers run away with the first half with a perfect 9-0 slate.

Major League
In the American Division, the Orioles squeezed by the Padres in a close contest with an 8-2 record. The National Division saw the Colts and Red Sox deadlock for first place with 8-2 records, with a playoff game set for the end of the season.

Minor League
By winning their last six games, the Brewers took the first half with a 7-1 record.

The National Division saw the Mariners blast to an 8-0 mark and take the top spot. The second place Pirates, 7-1, have a protest against the Mariners which could cause a playoff if the protest is upheld.

Coaches Corner

The effort was there

Sports editor's note: Tewksbury High School junior varsity girls softball and basketball coach Dolly Sacramone will be taking a leave of absence to further her education. Before Dolly heads north, she reports on her junior varsity softball girls, who just completed a frustrating 6-12 season, 5-9 in conference play.

by Dolly Sacramone
Tewksbury Junior Varsity Coach

I've learned one thing this past season - it's easier to write about winning than it is to write about losing. When my girls think about this very frustrating season, a lot of them will remember losing, while some will focus on the wins. They'll all remember the rain.

My memories are a little different. I remember Pam Schaffner's game-winning sacrifice hit against Andover and Cheryl Farley's run-saving catch against Chelmsford. Karen Maguire's two (four RBI) doubles and Karen Graney's great fill-in effort at first base (eight put-outs) against Billerica come to mind. I recall those Smith triplets in the Lawrence game - Barb's RBI triple to give us the lead and two run-saving throws from centerfield; Debbie's two crucial hits and super fill-in effort at third base, and Kris' bionic arm - throwing out three Lawrence runners.

Chris O'Keefe came through with a game-leading RBI against Andover, and Peggy Finn produced a super double play to squash a long Bishop Fenwick inning. Sheila Laskey came out of the bullpen facing a 12-6 deficit and held Lawrence scoreless while we pounded out a 14-12 win. Donna Goodine sparked with a two-hit, three RBI outing in the same game. Lisa Reed made a run saving catch against Dracut, while Maureen Doherty's game leading two-run triple against Billerica saved the day.

The final memory - the heroines came in all shapes, all sizes and names, but they all had one thing in common, they all tried oh, so hard!

Little League Softball

Barons top Sluggers 10 - 5

Red Barons 10-Sluggers 5

The combined efforts of pitchers Leigh Hastings and Kathy Vayo resulted in a hard-earned victory for the Red Barons over the tough Sluggers in Wilmington Girls Little League Softball action last week.

Susan McNeil played well at second base for the Red Barons, while Karen Anderson of the Sluggers pulled off an alert unassisted doubleplay. Adrienne Sartori blasted a grand slam to trigger the offense.

Red Barons 11-Sluggers 10

The Red Barons and the Sluggers played a super game, with the Red Barons hanging on for the win. Lisa Jackson of the Red Barons started a late inning rally which led to the final three runs and the victory.

The Swingers had a five run fourth inning and scored one run in the top of the sixth to close the gap.

Gail Lombard had a home run for the Red Barons, while Becky Batten hit two homers for the Swingers.

Tewksbury girls crush Chelmsford, Stoneham

The Tewksbury girl's freshmen track squad continued to roll the past two weeks, as they won four straight meets to raise their record to 8-1. Tuesday, June 3, the girls went up against Andover East Junior High for the Conference Championship. Andover East was undefeated going into this meet.

On June 10 the girls track and field Freshmen League Meet will be held at the TMHS track starting at 3 p.m. Nine teams, including Andover East, Andover West, Billerica, Chelmsford, McCarthy, Chelmsford, Parker, Dracut, Keith Hall, Methuen, and host Tewksbury will participate.

The meet director will be Tewksbury coach, Steve Levine.

Tewksbury vs Chelmsford Moses Parker

Tewksbury won nine out of 12 events to defeat Chelmsford Parker, 71-29. Mary Ryan set a school record in the high jump with a 4'7" leap to go along with her fast 67.6 440. Beverly Luken took first in both the 100 and 220 dashes.

Eleanor Letteri took a first in the discus, edging out teammate Michelle Fleury, while Sherri Defina, in the hurdles and Kathy Weisensee, in the mile, breezed to victories.

Michelle Meuse won the 880 and contributed to the victory in the mile relay along with teammates Chrissie

Silk, Mary Ryan, and Eleanor Letteri. Other scorers were Patty Carey and Missi Riddle, second and third respectively in the shot put; Bev Luken and Defina, the same in the long jump; Carolyn Burns, a second in the high jump; Letteri, a third in the 880 run; Chrissie Silk, second and Margaret McDermott, third in the 440. Kim Daniels and Janet Wyr finished second and third in the 220 and Kelly Carey finished second in the mile.

Tewksbury vs Stoneham
Tewksbury repeated its earlier romp over Stoneham, 73-22, as Bev Luken won three events - the 100, the 220 and the long jump in which she broke 15 feet. Her 220 time is a new school record, as she edged out teammate Janet Kutcher, who would set a new ninth grade record in the same race. Their times were 27.6 and 27.65, respectively.

Lisa Silva, tied Mary Ryan's high jump record, with a 4'7" jump. Michelle Meuse broke Patty Murphy's eighth grade 440 record with a 66.5 time, while Kathy Weisensee also set a new eighth grade record with a 5.47.2 mile run.

Sherri Defina won the hurdles, Mary Ryan led Becky Osbourne and Anne Dougherty to a sweep victory in the 880, and the 440 relay team of Nancy Saunders, Michelle Muise, Kelly Drane and Janet Kutcher also ran to victory.

Other scorers were Missi Riddle, third in the shot put; Tricia Lavallee, a second in the long jump, a third in the hurdles and a second in the 100.

Michelle Fleury took a second in the discus, with Mary Ryan, third in the high jump and Nancy Saunders a third in the 100. Eleanor Letteri and Lisa Branham took second and third respectively in the 440 yard run, while Janet Wyr (220) and Kathy Sullivan (mile) also took third places.

Tewksbury vs Billerica
Tewksbury vs Keith Hall
Due to postponements, Tewksbury was forced to go against both

Billerica and Keith Hall Academy on the same day, in the same meet. This set-up is called a double dual meet, and it found Tewksbury picking up two wins, as they beat Billerica, 68-32 and Keith Hall, 67-33. Keith Hall also would pick up a victory over Billerica in the same meet.

Outstanding performances by events in this meet were: Missi Riddle's 26'10 1/2" shot put throw. Teammates Patty Carey and Michelle Fleury also performed exceptionally well in the shot put. Sherri Defina, Beverly Luken, and Janey Wyr in the long jump, with Defina and Luken placing first and second in both meets.

Michelle Fleury broke her own eighth grade record in the discus with 74'8 1/2" throw. Sally Hourihan also came up with an excellent 70 foot toss. Defina tied the school record in the 80 meter low hurdles, with a 13.0 time, while hurdler Patty Carey took a third in both meets.

Michelle Muise ousted former great runner Patty Murphy from another eighth grade record, as the speedster broke the 880 mark with a 2.36 time. Chrissie Silk and Becky Osbourne followed Muise, with Silk running an excellent 2:38.4. Beverly Luken ran impressively in both the 100 and 220 as did her teammates, Nancy Saunders and Janet Wyr.

Mary Ryan and Eleanor Letteri shined in the quarter mile run, as did teammate Margaret McDermott, while Kim Daniels and Janet Kutcher took second and third respectively behind Luken (220) in both meets.

Kathy Weisensee and Kathy Sullivan continued their excellent mile runs, while the meet's biggest highlight was the 440 relay, as Patty Gallella, Nancy Chase, Melanie Short, and Ellen May crossed the finish line ahead of Keith Hall, and became scorers for the first time this year, meaning all 32 girls on this year's track and field team had scored points in meets.

Easy win
TMHS sophomore Mark Indelicato has been a standout in the hurdles and the long jump this spring.

Meet the Redmen, Wildcats

Patricia Lefebvre
Tewksbury's senior rightfielder and designated hitter also enjoys basketball, drawing and painting in her spare time. Patricia lives at 61 Highland Avenue with her parents Jerry and Anita Lefebvre.

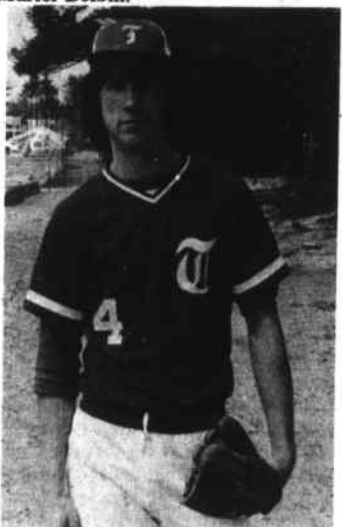

Lori Belbin
Wilmington's sophomore third-baseman-outfielder-pitcher is a fine all-around athlete. "She's an excellent hitter, and she leads the team in RBI's and stolen bases," says her coach Eddie Harrison.

Lori has high ambitions and plenty of other interests. "I want to go to a good college and study to be a laboratory technician, and someday hope to work as a veterinarian. Someday I hope I can own my own company, working with animals."

Miss Belbin has left herself another career option, that of a physical education instructor. "I like to work with children, train animals, play football, baseball, basketball, run, do science projects, write, play the guitar and listen to music." Lori resides at Whitefield Terrace with her parents Irving and Muriel Belbin.

Mike Langlois
Mike is a very important part of Tewksbury High School's baseball and soccer futures. The TMHS junior enjoys practicing soccer when he's not on the baseball diamond. Mike is the son of Bob and Pat Hart of 125 Livingston Street, Tewksbury.

Play Hopkinton Saturday

B' boys catch fire

The Tewksbury B team soccer boys ran their conference record to 2-4-2 and their overall slate to 5-4-2 over the past two weeks, as they beat conference opponent Bedford 4-0, North Reading 4-2, and Wilmington 1-0, before losing to first place Concord 4-0. Saturday, the B team plays its final home game at 4 p.m. when it hosts Hopkinton. Hopkinton and Tewksbury played to a 2-2 tie in their first game.

Tewksbury 4-Bedford 0
Tewksbury set the trend in the first minute of play, as Jim Field took a long clearing pass from back Brian Foster to give the locals a quick 1-0 lead. Dan Small scored a few minutes later, as he took a short pass from wing Andy Scharmer to bloop a shot over the goalie's head.

Scott Thornton made it 3-0 when he took a perfect wing pass from midfielder Tim Kelly to beat the goalie to the far corner of the net. Kelly closed out the scoring in the second half with a penalty shot conversion. Gene Weitz played an outstanding game on defense.

Tewksbury 4-North Reading 2
Stepping out of the conference to play North Reading, the Tewksbury team came out quickly for the second consecutive game, and scored all three goals in a 2-1 first half. Jim Field scored the first two goals for Tewksbury, while a communication mix-up found Tewksbury accidentally scoring North Reading's goal. Scott Thornton later put Tewksbury ahead 3-1, with Gene Weitz's penalty kick making it 4-1.

Tewksbury 1-Wilmington 0 Tewksbury travelled to Wilmington's field to play a non-conference game. Both teams played well, especially the Wilmington goalkeeper, who was superb. The only goal came with two minutes to go when set-up man Steve Sledz passed the ball off to center-midfielder Billy

New tennis court fencing unacceptable

Tewksbury tennis buffs will be glad to learn that the Peabody firm that put up the new fence around the Livingston Street tennis courts is expected to return this week to finish the job.

The selectmen, especially Bill Hallisey, threatened not to pay the bill for the repairs unless Expert Fence Company returned to correct some of the problems with the way it installed the new fence last month.

According to Hallisey, latches are missing from gates, the fences over the gates were not re-installed, and the old fence post holes were not filled in, creating a safety hazard. Also, among other problems, it took the local DPW two days to clean up after the work crew.

The cost of the new fence was approximately $3,000.

The selectmen opted to put up a new fence after the other one was uprooted by frost heaves. The only board member opposed to the expenditure was Tom Budrewicz, who wanted the money to go toward fixing the court's surface.

"What good will it do to put up a beautiful fence around lousy courts?" he asked.

Other selectmen countered that there just isn't $10,000-$20,000 in the DPW budget available for resurfacing the courts.

"It's not Wimbledon, but we can't afford Wimbledon," DPW Supt. Phil Pattison explained.

Concord 4-Tewksbury 0
Tewksbury was no match for a

Concord team that dominated play from start to finish. Three goals in a five minute span during the first half was all she wrote, as Concord would never let Tewksbury get back into the game. Jim Field, next week's captain, played a super game for Tewksbury.
